

PAPER DOLLS INSIDE! PLUS STICKERS!

Disney PRINCESS

Mom & Me

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2021 with funding from Kahle/Austin Foundation

<https://archive.org/details/momme0000hurl>

Disney PRINCESS Mom & Me

By Kalikolehua Hurley
Illustrated by the Disney Storybook Art Team

A Random House PICTUREBACK® Book
Random House  New York

Copyright © 2020 Disney Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Published in the United States by Random House Children's Books, a division of Penguin Random House LLC, 1745 Broadway, New York, NY 10019, and in Canada by Penguin Random House

Canada Limited, Toronto, in conjunction with Disney Enterprises, Inc. Pictureback, Random House, and the Random House colophon are registered trademarks of Penguin Random House LLC.

rhcbbooks.com

ISBN 978-0-7364-4042-4

Printed in the United States of America

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

“Welcome to this year’s kite festival,” Chief Tui said. Everyone was invited to participate. All kites had to be built and flown on the same day. It was one of Moana’s favorite traditions because she always made a kite with her mother, Sina.

Every year, Moana and Sina built a new kite. As Moana grew older, their kites got better ...

and bigger ...

and bolder!

“Let’s take our kite to new heights this year!” Moana told her mother. She envisioned a kite with long wings, a long tail, and even a beak. It would look exactly like the great Motunui seabird. Sina loved the idea!

"Come on, Pua," Moana said to her pet pig. "I'll race you to the beach!" Heihei, the rooster, followed.

Once they reached the shore, Moana began sketching her ideas on banana leaves.

Moana studied a group of seabirds, focusing on one in particular. She watched in admiration as the bird flapped its wings and took off into the air. This was exactly how she pictured the kite!

Moana sketched a few designs before settling on her favorite. “Do you think Mom will like this?” she asked, holding up the leaf. Heihei opened his wings just like the bird in her drawing, which made Moana laugh.

Moana led Pua and Heihei to a coconut grove nearby, where she collected sticks for the frame and coconut husks to make rope.

Heihei began pecking near some palm fronds and tree bark. “We could use those. Nice find, Heihei!” Moana said.

Once Moana had gathered everything she needed, she headed home. She couldn't wait to make the kite with her mom.

Together, Moana and Sina spread all the supplies out on a mat. "I've been saving these for our kite," Sina said. She handed Moana pieces of beautiful tapa cloth.

"Thank you!" Moana cried, hugging her mom.

Moana and Sina pounded the fibers from the coconut husks until they were flat. Then they braided them and wove them together to make a long, strong rope. After that was done, they constructed the kite's frame.

Next, Sina helped Moana paint the tapa cloth to look like a bird!
Once the cloth dried, Moana decorated it by stamping on shapes inspired by the oceans and mountains of Motunui.

After tying the tapa to the frame, Moana and her mother added the guide rope to steer and control the kite.

“Moana, it’s almost as big as you!” Sina exclaimed.

“And now for the finishing touch—in honor of our family,” Moana said. She tied a few royal red feathers to the kite’s tail.

Moana felt the wind blow, and the guide rope pulled tight.
Sina tossed the kite into the air, and it lifted off.
"It's flying!" exclaimed Moana. "We did it!"

Building the kite had been so exciting, Moana and her mother had lost track of time. They returned to the festival immediately!

A person's arm is visible on the left, holding a large flag with bold black and white geometric patterns. The flag is set against a soft, purple and orange sunset sky. In the background, a large, dark, rocky cliff face rises on the right. The entire scene is framed by a decorative border at the top and bottom.

“There you are,” Tui said to Moana as she ran up. “I’ve been looking forward to seeing what surprise you have for us this year.”

“I think this is our best one yet! Wait until you see it fly,” Moana said.

When Moana lifted her kite,
it felt heavier than before.
But she managed to get it
in the air and watched
as it climbed higher ...

and higher.

Suddenly, the kite
twirled to the left,
then swooped to the right
and dove directly for Moana!

It was out
of control!

The kite took another nosedive,
and that was when Moana saw . . .

“Heihei!” she shouted.
“You’re flying!”

Moana gently lowered the kite to the ground.

"Great job, everyone!" Tui said. "Especially Moana and Sina."

"I couldn't have done it without you, Mom,"

Moana said. "And thanks to Heihei for a special flight that no one will ever forget!"

B

BALTIMORE COUNTY
PUBLIC LIBRARY

Moana

SET SAIL ON AN ACTION-PACKED VOYAGE!

PAPER

TICKERS!

JANUARY 2020

3 103 20015 9173

BALTIMORE COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY

Disney PRINCESS

A Random House
PICTUREBACK® Book

 Random House
rhcbooks.com

US $5.99 / $7.99 CAN

ISBN 978-0-7364-4042-4

50599

9 780736 440424

Mom & Me

W6-BMJ-644

